

Descendants of Cornelius Dries

The attached family tree for three generations of descendants of Andreas Dies was compiled by Mary Lou Clegg in 2001. She notes that some of the relationships are speculative. And that Andreas might not be the father of Cornelius Dries. This is of value since much information is given related to the descendants of Cornelius, but some of it is denoted as speculative when that is the case.

Please send comments. Here's 3 generations. I've used Treece most of the time and I do realize that if we ever publish anything that different members of the family used different spellings. Andreas would probably have been Dreas or Dries.

He could be the son of Jacob Treece, but I'm placing him in the family of Michael because he was in Surry Co. with Michael. He was probably born about 1791 because he shows up on the tax list in 1812. Jacob's son Daniel was older, born about 1782.

He probably married Susanna and died before 1830. This is speculative but he seems to be the most likely Treece male to have been Susanna's husband and the father of her two children.

Speculative that she was married to Daniel. She appears to be a daughter in law of Michael Treece.

v. JAMES TREECE, b. Abt. 1795, PA; m. SARA ?; b. TN.

Notes for JAMES TREECE:

The only reference to James is in the death record of William. It lists his father as James Treece and his mother as Sara. James and Sara have not been found on any other record or any census.

Children of MICHAEL TREECE and MALINDA ? are:

vi. DESDEMONY4 TREECE, b. Abt. 1814, TN; m. ?.

Notes for DESDEMONY TREECE:

She may have married or lived with a black man. In 1850 and 1860 she is listed as the head of the household. Blacks were not supposed to be included in the census prior to the Civil War and usually weren't. So she is listed as the head of the household even though the father of her children may be living there. In 1860 her children are listed as mulatto, but listed as white in 1850.
